1. We received the bad news from [REDACTED] that the commercial outfit which was committed to provide the closed-circuit TV for SIC's defector presentation in the JOT program is probably not going to be able to meet this commitment. I have asked [REDACTED] to check out every possible alternative, particularly with TSS, to provide a substitute set-up.

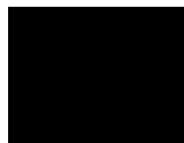

2. We have checked out [REDACTED] availability for [REDACTED] dinner, and the chances appear to be extremely slim that he will be back in Washington by that date. Meanwhile, I have confirmed with [REDACTED] office that I will be present.

3. Major Mulcahy of the Air Command and Staff School Staff, who is attending the current edition of [REDACTED] seminar, is coming over tomorrow to discuss his school's Communism program with [REDACTED] and myself. From his remarks it appears as though they feel that there's no particular difficulty in obtaining speakers to cover the subjects which they have listed - since they can call upon SIC to cover any part of the field. In one sense I'm pleased that they attribute this capability to us, but I'm not flattered that, if my assumption is correct, we are looked upon as the reserves to plug the gap when a big name can't be scheduled.
